"Waves of Life"

Dragonheart and Audioglobe present the first production of Standing Stones, a new label that deals with music inspired by Celtic, Folk and Medieval tradition. The first piece that is released under the Celtic dolmens is IRIDIO's debut album. IRIDIO sees the light in 2002 thanks to Franz and Valentina: two eclectic artists who've been working in the international musical environment for many years dealing with almost every kind of production and cooperation from heavy metal to dance music, from blues to classical music.

IRIDIO represents their new musical way, as they felt the need to find a new sound that could enrapture the listener and lead him to a timeless universe with no boundaries: a world made of pure emotion.

WAVES OF LIFE is inspired by Folk and Celtic tradition and by Medieval Music, however it's enriched by Ambient atmospheres, ethnic nuances, electronic sounds and Dark Gothic tones. Valentina's angelic and charming voice paints refined melodic textures and it will enchant your spirit and your senses.

The album finds its inspiration in many different sources and it makes reference to the most different artists from Dead Can Dance to Loreena McKennitt, Enya, Kate Bush, Tori Amos and Ataraxia. Acoustic instruments like harp, violin, oboe, flute and guitar are blended with modern sounds and electronic grooves, creating a perfect synthesis of past and present. The ten tracks on WAVES OF LIFE ravish the listener's soul from the very first time and they lead him through many different atmospheres: from the sunny happiness of traditional Folk and Celtic dances to the melancholy of Medieval ballads, with moments made of dark ethnic rituals and catchy pop melodies.

...Far and near, past and future, dream and reality... IRIDIO is an alchemy of emotions and feelings that will lead you on a spiritual journey you'll never forget.

...IT'S TIME TO LET YOUR EMOTIONS AWAKE...
